Our Projects: Where are they now?

Growing Young Minds Garden Past-Funded Project

Growing Young Minds Garden is an amazing example of a project that represents all three pillars of the Limestone Learning Foundation – sustainability, mentorship and pay it forward. Students at both École Sir John A. Macdonald Public School and La Salle Secondary School worked together to create a sustainable garden which they constructed from start to finish. Using skills in design and construction, high school students built self-watering beds and elementary students cultivated seeds, planted and harvested their work. This project provides the students from both schools with multiple valuable lessons about sustainability, science, design, paying it forward and teamwork.
